Flushing, L. I. Mr. De Mauriac is a wealthy broker of this city, whose wife died about two years ago. Until she obtained her divorce, on the ground of desertion and failure to support, Mrs. Leavitt was the wife of William E. Leavitt, a rich New York merchant.

Leavist were old lovers, and at one time, of that quiet town. The result was that there were quarrels in the Leavitt household, and finally the hus-hand and wite separated. Then Mrs. Leavitt went to Dakota and applied to the courts there for a divorce. The decree was granted there for a divorce. The decree was granted about two months ago.

Mrs. Leavitt was soon joined by her old lover and they were married quietly yester day at Sioux Falls. The marriage is said to have occasioned very little surprise in Flushing, for this result has been long anticipated by the family friends and acquaintances.
